A MONTHLY PUBLICATION FOR ARIZONA STUDENT UNION STUDENT EMPLOYEES

April 2011

Created just for you by: Student Human Resources (SHR)

Better Know A Unit Union Galleries

For this month's "Better Know a Unit" we bring to you one of the many wonders of the Student Union: The Galleries. If you haven't been to the Union Gallery you are honestly missing out. The galleries heighten awareness of both current and ongoing issues as well as creative processes, which encourage open dialogue and personal introspection. The Union Gallery is located on the third floor of the union on the East side of the Grand Ballroom. They are open weekdays 12pm-6pm but on Wednesdays they are open 12pm-8pm.

The Union Gallery is an especially fun place to visit because it's a round room. Talk about MODERN! I, Vinnie, like to go there just to hear my voice echo as I talk about the art pieces, but that could just be me. The employees are friendly and very helpful with any questions that you might have so it makes talking to them very easy. Not only does the Union Gallery expose student artwork to public it also holds workshops for the public that are fun and interactive.

Upcoming Events with the Union Gallery that you should make a point of attending include:

March 31 at 6pm—Eco-Art, where Students can engage in how art can delve beyond traditional confines of what is considered art and delve into issues that impact their lives.

April 7 and 14 at 6pm—Photo Journalism, where it is discussed how photo journalism is used to depict local and global issues.

April 20 at 6pm—Cartooning, where views of historical cartoonists are brought up.

April 28 at 1pm—Drawing, where attendees can create images by drawing with wire and learn about the art of Keith Haring. These events are at your disposal! All you have to do is sign up for them in the Union Gallery. Every month they have numerous events that students can attend. To find out what's happening next check out the Union Galleries page on the Union website to see their calendar.

Remember, if you haven't visited the Union Gallery at this point you should definitely make it a point to check out and show your support in your fellow students' artwork.

Prime Vendor Award

The Arizona Student Unions are pleased to acknowledge our Fall 2010 and Spring 2011 student employee winners of the Prime Vendor Award. This wonderful award was made possible thanks to our thoughtful vendors, numerous food manufacturers in conjunction with Shamrock Foods Company. Their generous contributions allowed 33 students each semester (66 total) to receive a the Meal Plan gift card for the Arizona Student Unions Dining Services. This charitable act was also made possible through the Dining Services Office and Meal Plan Office. Uvalilia Flores, a winner from Bookend Cafe, expressed, "I feel very grateful and I thank all those who made this program happened." When Nicholas Bischof from Computer Support/Marketing heard about the award, he stated, "I feel honored to receive recognition for my hard work and contribution to the Union." Event Services student employee Carlos A. Rivera wanted to simply say, "Thanks Shamrock!" Make sure to keep a look out for the Prime Vendor Award in Fall 2011.

Get in the Know

Hi, I'm Stephanie. I star in a weekly video series for the Arizona Student Unions YouTube channel and Facebook page called "Get in the Know." I like to call Get in the Know my "glorified student announcements" but let's be real; there are several aspects of Get in the Know videos that make student announcements look like... well, child's play.

1. "Get in the Know" is quick and painless. It's filled with jump cuts and abrupt editing to create a fast-paced viewing experience in an attempt to harness the ever-elusive college student attention span- so each video is strictly under a minute.

2. "Get in the Know" is interactive. We only post to our Facebook page, really. Like it, discuss it, refute it- who cares, it's social media.

3. "Get in the Know" is higher quality. Our videos are filmed with a "pro-sumer" HD camera and several floodlights.

So while I may poke fun at my own video series, I also continue to do it. Not because I need the pay to fund my EasyMac and ramen diet, but because I truly believe "Get in the Know" can take off as a smart, interactive UofA news source, as well as a fast and fun advertising option for Arizona Student Unions and CSIL departments.

Tucson Activities

If finding a relaxing Tucson activity on the weekend is difficult for you, look no further! Hiking Sabino Canyon can be a calming, relaxing adventure with some friends or alone and is a great form of exercise that is a nice change of pace from the normal recreation center gym. The beautiful mountain scenery and small creeks lead to seven waterfalls at the end of a very long hike, but it is worth it. This hike is called 7 falls. It is about an 8-mile hike in total and it is about average difficulty. Dogs are not allowed but leave the pooch at home and calm your mind during the weekend. If this trail seems too difficult, there are many other trails that are very short and some are even paved to make them less difficult! With that said, get outside and enjoy this beautiful Tucson scenery and weather before it becomes too hot!

Eat Healthy!

Are you ready for finals? No? Yeah, neither are we. Don't worry though, we're offering a class to help YOU manage your stress as you prepare for yet another round of finals and projects! If your idea of eating healthy includes throwing extra lettuce and tomato on your bacon cheeseburger, why not stop at a TOTALLY FREE nutritional class? It will be in the Tubac Room presented by the Student Dining Services Task Force at 7:00pm on April 19th. You'll not only learn how to help manage your stress by healthy eating, but you'll also learn how to plan healthy meals. Even better? There's going to be free, COMPLETELY AWESOME snacks provided, just for showing up.

We did mention it's free, right?
